

Search Engine Marketing Consultancy Opens More Doors for More Clients With Free Managed Web Hosting

Single Entry Point extends limited-time managed hosting offer to all new clients.

Toronto, Canada (PRWeb) August 18, 2008 -- Single Entry Point today announced a limited-time offer to help its clients catapult ahead of the competition. The Toronto-based Search Engine Marketing consultancy is offering customers free managed web hosting worth $720 per year at no additional cost.

"We're committed to building a better online presence for each one of our clients," stated Mike Lascut, founder of Single Entry Point. "Our free managed web hosting provides further unparalleled value to our customers and helps them realize a higher ROI by saving them money right off the bat."

Single Entry Point's limited-time managed hosting offer is extended to all new clients who engage the company with a search, email, or web analytics project. The managed web hosting package is valued at $720 per year and includes: free website hosting on Microsoft Windows 2003 servers; free DNS hosting and management; free one-time website installation with no setup charges; free FTP access to client website; and a free email server.

Single Entry Point is an online marketing consultancy devoted to giving large, medium and small companies an extreme edge through search marketing, email marketing and web analytics. With 12 years of search engine experience under its belt, the company continues to catch the attention of North America's biggest companies thanks to its unique blend of expertise, proprietary technology, and intelligent application of data, all of which have proven to give its clients an unfair advantage and the prospect of unmatched market share.
